

HAUNTED BLYTHE

A PARANORMAL CALIFORNIA TOWN

BY PAUL DALE ROBERTS, HALO PARANORMAL INVESTIGATIONS

When I was stationed at Fort Huachuca, Arizona, attending Military Intelligence School, a soldier buddy and I decided to hitchhike from Fort Huachuca to Phoenix, Arizona, during the holidays. Our final destination would be my parent's home in Sacramento, California, to retrieve my vehicle.

During this adventure, what I remember most was the strange town of Blythe, California, where we stopped over during our trip. First off, the locals told us that UFOs are seen almost on a nightly basis in the area. Here is an example, a report that was sent over to MUFON:

The sighting occurred on October 20, 2018, in Blythe and lasted about 30 seconds. The witness's report is as follows: "Driving from Blythe, CA to Boulder City, NV using Hwy. 95 about 20 miles north of Blythe. I saw an object as it passed over my vehicle, at about 2,000 feet above me. Speed was over 400/500 MPH object. The object started dropping closer to the ground as it moved away from me. Then it banked to the north around a small mountain. Did not see any wings when it banked to the left. It then went behind the ridge, and I never saw it again."

UFO Sighting in Blythe

I can only wonder if the UFO activity has anything to do with the Blythe Geoglyphs and the Blythe Intaglios. In the open fields just outside of Blythe are many gigantic figures etched into the ground.

The native indigenous American Indians say that they did not create these huge etchings in the ground. They believe that red-haired giants created the etchings, and later Aztecs that migrated from Mexico may have set out to preserve the etchings. The etchings on the ground are so huge that they can only be truly appreciated from the sky.

The intaglios are located east of the Big Maria Mountains, about 15 miles north of downtown Blythe, just west of U.S. Highway 95 near the Colorado River. The Blythe Intaglios are the most well-known of the over 200 intaglios in the Colorado Desert. They contain three human figures, two four-legged animals, and a spiral.

If you are a believer of the Ancient Astronaut theory, which I am, I believe the sole purpose of these large etchings were for extraterrestrials. When extraterrestrials left, the indigenous people made the etchings to entice the extraterrestrials for their return.

The red-haired giants may have been hybrids, half human and half extraterrestrial. The land in and around Blythe may be on a ley line, with portal qualities that attract UFO activity to this very day.

Ghostly Activity in Blythe

Besides geoglyphs and UFOs, there is also reported ghostly activity in Blythe. On Lost Lake Road, an Indian chief is sometimes seen walking on the side of the road. He is usually seen on the road in full garb, wearing a brown leather vest and with long gray/black hair.

Jacob Madison, from Phoenix, Arizona, encountered the Indian chief of Lost Lake Road and saw that he had a long-pointed nose and a very wrinkled face. Jacob thought the chief was alive and called out to him. But the chief continued walking, looking straight ahead and then faded out in the glare of the sun. Jacob then realized that he had just seen a ghost.

In July 1989, Morgan Taylor from

Merced, California, says that he was heading to Phoenix, Arizona, and had a stayover in Blythe. He stayed at a Best Western Hotel on W. Donlon Street, and in the morning, he was looking out his window and heard the sounds of a motorcycle revving up.

When looking out his window, he saw two bikers. One biker had a "Monterey Loser" rocker on his leather jacket, and the other biker had a "Stockton Skull" rocker on his leather jacket. Both bikers started to head off, and then it looked like they went into a bright light portal and vanished.

Morgan couldn't believe his eyes. He thinks he either saw two biker ghosts or saw two living bikers vanish into a portal.

One storekeeper told me that back in the 1930s, a "Thunderbird" was seen flying in the skies over the geoglyphs. The storekeeper believes that there is a paranormal gateway in Blythe that causes all of this high strangeness.

I have to agree with the storekeeper! ♦

Animal or spirit figures are also found in Blythe. (Photo: Rsfinlayson via Wikimedia Commons)
